1. Select a REST API to work with (from the examples discussed in the lectures, or any other suitable API) and request a free access key, if necessary
2. Create a simple AJAX request to obtain some data from that API, in JSON or XML format
3. Consume the response by updating some part of the webpage
4. Continue to elaborate more complex requests and/or parsing of response data
5. Consider if that API would be useful for your project.
